

QUANTIFIERS

We use some words to denote amount of something. They are called quantifiers. We have two categories:

Countable

Uncountable

Countable nouns are used with certain quantifiers.

Many

A few

I have seen many/a few countries.

Like many/a few people.

While uncountable nouns are used with certain quantifiers.

Much

I don't have much money.

A little

I have a little money.

Some quantifiers are used with both countables and uncountables.

I have a lot of/some friends.

I have a lot of/some time before the meeting.

Countable

Uncountable

Any is rather used in questions and negative sentences.

Could you find any doctors nearby?

I couldn't find any.

I don't really know around here. I don't know any doctor.

Any

We can use any with both countables and uncountables.

Is there any bread?

Do you have any pets?

There isn't any bread. I don't have any pets.

This one is used in negative ways. But the sentence structure is positive.

I have no money...

No time...

No friends...

No

When we offer or request something, we use some.

Would you like some tea?

Can I have some water?

Let's do some exercise!

Some

Exercises

1. We didn't have _____ luggage – just two small bags.
2. We have _____ furniture, not even a bed or a table.
3. Do you have _____ questions?
4. Can't they just come here with _____ water?
5. If you have _____ questions, just ask.
6. I have _____ time left, I'll have to go soon.
7. They don't understand how _____ time left.
8. Look! There are _____ people at the gate.
9. If they arrive early, I will give them _____ chocolate.
10. Only _____ volunteers applied to us. We need more than that!

Answer Key

1. We didn't have much luggage – just two small bags.
2. We have no furniture, not even a bed or a table.
3. Do you have any questions?
4. Can't they just come here with some water?
5. If you have any questions, just ask.
6. I have a little time left, I'll have to go soon.
7. They don't understand how much time left.
8. Look! There are a lot of people at the gate.
9. If they arrive early, I will give them some chocolate.
10. Only a few volunteers applied to us. We need more than that!